

The Eggers warranty covers doors constructed using Structural Composite Lumber (SCL) core when different finishes are used on one face than the other. This includes exterior doors having an exterior finish on the outside and an interior finish on the inside. This can also include latex or enamel paint on one side and stain on the other.

Interior doors that are pre-finished at Eggers with combinations of stain, clear and opaque on opposite faces are not considered split finish. These combinations will not require SCL core in order to maintain the warranty.

Summary of Warranty Rules

- If factory finished both sides and core is SCL: If finish 1 and finish 2 are any combination, warranty is valid
- If factory finished both sides and core is other than SCL: If finish 1 and finish 2 are different and either one is Cerused or Prime, the warranty is void. All other pick combinations are warranted
- If field finished both sides and core is SCL: Warranty is valid even if finish 1 and finish 2 are different
- If field finished both sides and core is other than SCL: Warranty is void if finish 1 and finish 2 are different
- Doors are not available with factory finish one side only
